

David Bickley
Cartography

Poster

The idea that I would like to research and therefore display on a poster is to see if there exists any correlation between median income and distance to places of higher learning such as universities and trade schools. By visually showing the dispersion of income in the US versus the physical locations of colleges, I believe that a correlation can be shown between the two. I intend to show both maps interpolated and possibly a bivariate map.